GREENSBORO TELEGRAM.

VOL. VI. NO. 148. GREENSBORO, N. C., WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1900. Price Five Cents

ALL NEWS STILL UNCERTAIN.

NO LIGHT YET ON THE SITUATION.

A Message From Conger at Pekin on July 4 Says That the City Was Without Government, Except the Chinese Army, and That if Relief Came it Must Come Quickly—Devastation in Tien-Tsin—Chinese Claim That a Runner Brought News From Pekin on the 14th.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, July 25.—A dispatch from Taku dated July 22 says that General Li, commanding the forts near Taku informed the British commander that a runner who left Pekin July 14, said that the city then appeared to be in a state of anarchy. The Chinese troops were fighting the Boxers, who appeared to have the advantage. The legation guards had exhausted their ammunition for the Maxim guns, and the Europeans were using their rifles sparingly. Just before the messenger's departure, the Chinese mounted guns on the walls commanding the legations, but the guards rushed out and silenced the guns. A minority of the Chinese princes are desirous of protecting foreigners. General Li was anxious to avoid fighting the allies.

A dispatch from Tien-Tsin dated the 18th and via Shanghai today, says that the native city presents an appalling spectacle as of a war of desolation. The suburbs are completely destroyed by flames and shellfire. Scarcely a dozen houses are intact on the side facing the foreign settlements. Inside the city the damage is terrific. Many buildings nearest the wall are literally torn to pieces. Charred corpses appear everywhere.

100 FRENCH MISSIONARIES KILLED.

Paris, July 15—The French consul at Shanghai has cabled the foreign minister that a hundred French missionaries have been killed in Manchuria.

CONGER HEARD FROM.

The Navy Department Has Received a Message Purporting to Have Been Sent by him on the 4th.

By Wire to the Telegram

Washington, July 25.—The following message has been received at the navy department: Chefoo, July 24, a written message signed Conger, and dated July 4, was received at Tien-Tsin on the 21st, and says: "Have been besieged for two weeks in British legation. There is grave danger of a general massacre by the Chinese soldiers, who are shelling the legation daily. Relief must come soon if at all. The city is without government except by the Chinese army. It has been determined to massacre all foreigners at Pekin. The entry of relief forces into the city will probably be hotly contested." The message came from Capt. Thomas, commander of Brooklyn.

Why Kempff Didn't Fight at Taku.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Washington, July 25—Admiral Kempff reports from Chefoo the 17th: "I didn't take part in the attack upon Taku because I had no orders to warrant such an act of war. I informed Rear Admiral Bruce that I was not authorized to initiate any act of war with a country with which we were at peace." Capt. Wise of the Monocacy reports his regrets that his ship was not in the fight.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS TODAY.

Mr. King's New Buildings.

Contractors are figuring on the plans for Mr. John W. King's new buildings to be erected on North Elm street, on the Dick property he recently purchased. Three buildings will be erected and rented for stores. They will be two stories high, with basements.

The work of preparing the ground for the foundations was begun this morning. The box bushes and other shrubbery had grown on this property for 75 years.

A REPLY TO MR. SHIELDS.

A Writer Wants to Know Who Has Been Making the Trouble, and Where Mr. Shields is Anyhow, and Who Has Been Instigating the Law Breaking--The Fayville Dispensary Has Been Taken in by The Whole County.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

In an article in yesterday's Telegram Mr. Shields says that "a comparative statement of the crime in Greensboro 'before and after taking' refutes the argument in favor of the moral side of the whiskey problem."

Admitting, for the sake of argument, that there have been more indictments for retailing under the dispensary than under the saloon system, it only proves that the dispensary officials have been more energetic in bringing these violators of the law to the courts, than the officers under the saloon system. Who are the people behind these violators of law, furnishing the whiskey to the blind tigers, going on their bonds when arrested, and in every way trying to shield them from the consequences of their crimes? It is most certainly not the dispensary people. Twelve months ago the writer heard more than one anti-dispensaryite say, "Well, you have got your dispensary but we'll see you later. We intend to do everything in our power to bring your dispensary into disrepute." I do not charge that all of those who did not approve of the dispensary have been doing this, but I know that it is true of a very large number of those who are more anxious to set up the saloons than they are to keep the boys from their allurements. Again he says, "if the dispensary is not a success morally and will not be a greater revenue than the saloon system why not remove it" My dear friend, you are begging the whole question. If your premises are wrong, your conclusion will be incorrect.

An overwhelming majority of the successful business men of Greensboro have said it is neither a moral nor a financial failure. These men have said so over their own signatures and none of them have indignantly denied their signatures, as was true of some of those whose names were paraded over a counter statement.

You seem to admit that the city has not gone to the everlasting bow-wows under the dispensary, but say "there could be greater prosperity with the opportunities afforded." The opportunities we suppose are the eight or ten saloons at $1,000 license each, now suggested by you. It is hard to find the position of these people. At one time they say if the dispensary is downed the town will be dry. At another they suggest eight or ten saloons at $1,000 license each. Under which flag are you sailing, prohibition or ten saloons? Mr. Shields says the dispensary "has been a source of trouble from the beginning." Right you are, Mr. Shields. All reformations cause trouble. All suggestions of better ways of doing things cause trouble. Demetrius, the silver smith, raised a row in Ephesus because St. Paul preached against the shrine makers, who made no small gains by making silver shrines to Diana of the Ephesians. Who is it that is raising the racket in Greeensboro? Is it not the minority who refuse to yield to the majority, and finally determined to carry the war out into the county, which should have had nothing to do with it? He says it gave dissatisfaction to some of the people of Fayetteville. So it did Mr. Shield's. Still the dispensary runs on at the same old stand, and the county of Cumberland has been taken under the dispensary law.

J. R. WHARTON.

Believes in Liberty.

Two men, one white and the other colored, were overheard discussing the dispensary question on the front steps of a store situated in close proximity to Greeesboro. The negro was reading a copy of the Anti-Dispensary News to the white man, who possibly could not do it for himself, and was expounding its doctrines as he read. "I ain't a-going to vote for this here dispensary," said the negro, "because it takes away the people's rights and gives 'em to one man. I never did believe in it, nowhow. I'm fer liberty. I is."

In Danville two colored women were killed by lightning Sunday. At the same time, in the county nearby, a young lady was eating watermelon in the yard when a bolt from an apparently clear sky instantly killed her.

WATCH ALL THE REPUBLICANS.

ALLOW NO TRADING TO BE DONE.

The Enemies of Good Government Making a Desperate Effort to Capture the Legislature by Swapping Votes—The Effort Will Fail if the People Do Their Duty—No True Democrat Will be Fooled.

Chairman Scales is in receipt of a letter from Chairman Simmons, of the Democratic State Executive Committee, saying the situation all over the State is very bright and that nothing but a relaxation of the vigorous efforts of the past few weeks can prevent the Democrats from achieving a grea victory. He impresses upon all Democrats the necessity of hard work until the polls are closed in order that success may be assured.

Mr. Simmons writes that the enemies of good government are trying all sorts of schemes to thwart the will of the white people of North Carolina. He has been informed that the Fusionists will endeavor to make all kinds of trades on election day, in some counties offering two Republican votes for the amendment in exchange for one Democratic vote for their legislative ticket. The Republicans will be specially active in Guilford county in their efforts to effect various kinds of trades, and every true Democrat should be on guard to see that no trading is done.

The only hope the Republicans now have is that they will be able to swap enough votes to elect a majority of the members of the Legislature. With a Republican or Fusion Legislature, they would be able to throw out enough votes to defeat the amendment and place North Carolina back under negro domination. In addition to this, the next Legislature will elect a successor to Marion Butler, and it would be a great calamity if that chameleon colored traitor were allowed to succeed himself.

So it will be seen that the election of a Democratic Legislature is of equal importance to the adoption of the amendment. The two go hand in hand, and the man that votes for one cannot consistently vote against the other.

Let every Democrat be on the watch and see that no swap of any kind is made in Guilford county.

MRS. HOBSON DEAD.

Lieutenant Hobson's Grandmother Dies in Davie County.

Mrs. Hobson has been in declining health for some time and her death had been expected.

The Salisbury correspondent of the Charlotte Observer says of her death:

"Mrs. Ann Hobson died last night at the Hobson homestead at Jerusalem, Davie county, aged 89. Mrs. Hobson was a grandmother of Lieutenant Richmond P Hobson. She leaves a large number of other descendents, among them A. H. Price, Esq., of this city, who is her grandson. Mrs. Hobson was a sister of Gov. Morehead. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Church. Capt. and Mrs. Chas. Price went from here to attend the funeral, which will be held tomorrow."

'Squire Pritchett's Position.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

I have been interviewed by a number of my Republican friends as to how I stand on the political issues of the day, and especially as to my attitude toward the greatest issue since 1861—that of the amendment, and I take this method of answering all such inquiries.

This is the only chance the present generation has had or will have to settle the great question of white supremacy, and I am aligned with the white people. I believe the amendment will prove to be best for the white man and best for the colored man. Others differ from me, a privilege I would not deny, but these are my honest convictions and I mean to stand by them.

I intend to vote for the dispensary as well as the amendment, and last but not least, I will not vote for any man who will vote to return Marion Butler to the U. S. Senate in case he is a candidate before the next legislature, and this compels me to vote for the Democratic legislative ticket, as all my party friends are wearing the Butler-Pritchard halter.

J. A. PRITCHETT.

Cotton Market.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New York, July 21.—Cotton: August, 9.31; September, 8.73; December, .24.

A scaffold fell at the state normal school at Millersville, Pa., this morning and six carpenters were precipitated to the ground. Two were fatally injured.

REPUBLICANS SLOWING UP.

The headquarters of the Republican State Executive Committee in this city present a scene of comparative quiet to what might have been observed a week or more ago, when literature was being sent out every day by the wagon load. Chairman Holton has been in Raleigh several days dickering with Butler, Cy. Thompson and other fusion leaders. He carried several of his clerks with him to assist the force at Populist headquarters in sending out the State tickets.

Secretary Hyams and a small force of clerks remain at headquarters in this city and are sending out the last installments of literature. Dr. Warren Vines Hall, Chairman Holton's factotum, has returned to Charlotte to resume his practice as a United States commissioner. As he was leaving he facetiously remarked that he might get some business out of the Democratic registrars and election managers.

NEARING THE FINISH.

The Candidates Have Only Four More Appointments.

The county candidates spoke today as Friendship, a Republican township. Several people went up from Greensboro The candidates are nearing the finish, having only four more appointments to fill. Tomorrow they will speak at Colfax, at High Point Friday, Jamestown Saturday, and Greensboro Monday night.

It will be remembered that the Republican candidates have never met their Democratic opponents in Greensboro, though it is said they will face the music this year.

The joint canvass has progressed very satisfactorily to the Democrats. The candidates are much encouraged at the prospects of victory, which grow brighter every day.

Hon. James W. Forbis.

To the Editor of the Telegram:

The eloquent and fine speech of Mr. Forbis on yesterday morning while the people were waiting for the speakers of the day, cannot be too highly praised. For one hour and a half his arraignment of the Republicans and their methods of doing business for the past thirty-five years, was full and complete. He held up to public gaze their rascality in the dark days of reconstruction and followed them down through successive years, and wherever and whenever they got control of affairs of state, corruption, ruin, and disgrace followed in their wake.

HEARER.

Evil Doers on Their Good Behavior.

It was remarked this morning that affairs in police circles had been remarkably quiet for a long time. An officer standing by was of the opinion that the force should be given credit for keeping trouble down, and this is probably true. At any rate, the evil-doers in Greensboro have been on their good behavior of late. Scarcely any arrests are being made, and the Police Court does not average more than one session a week. So far as crime is concerned, Greensboro is at present a quiet town.

THE CAUCUS RESOLUTIONS.

AMENDMENT WILL NOT BE CHANGED

The Democrats Say That the Conspiracy Against Constitutional Rights Shall be Defeated—Butler Instigates the Arrest of a Registrar—Loge Harris Says Holton is No Good—Guessing at the Fusion Figureheads—Ike Meekins Says His Party Loves the Revenue Officers and the Negroes—Negro Poll Holders to Represent Republicans.

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, July 25.—The resolutions which were adopted by the Democratic Legislative caucus yesterday afternoon have a ring which is stirring.

"Whereas, It is the sense of this caucus that the Legislature should not now be finally adjourned, because it is known that certain politicians in North Carolina are now engaged in a conspiracy to unlawfully interfere with, and, if possible, to prevent, by judicial usurpation, the people from holding an election heretofore duly and legally called to be held August 2, and,

"Whereas, It is our duty to the people of the State, whose representatives we are, to hold ourselves in a position to thwart this conspiracy and to protect the people in their constitutional rights, and to deal in such a manner as the law authorizes with all such officers of the State as may lend themselves to the furtherance of this conspiracy,

"Therefore, Be it resolved, by the Democratic members of the General Assembly, in joint caucus:

"First, That the General Assembly, which meets today, adjourn to meet again July 30th.

"Second, That at the said adjourned session, no legislation shall be passed changing in any way whatever the constitutional amendment as submitted by the General Assembly at its session held in June last."

The interest here yesterday centered on the course of events in Duplin, growing out of the arrest of an election registrar at Rose Hill. This arrest was inspired by Senator Butler, it is declared. The Senator was booked to speak at Southport but didn't go. It appears he was also booked to speak at Warsaw, but again didn't appear. He was here yesterday and had a long conference with Chairman Holton and Governor Russell at the executive office. What they talked about may only be conjectured. Whatever may be the Governor's sympathy for Butler, one may be sure that Holton cuts a mighty poor figure with him.

Loge Harris says, of all poor campaign managers, Holton is the very worst. He added that Holton would never think of such a thing as resigning and giving place to an able man.

About the only Republican who appears to be enjoying himself these days is Senator J. F. Franks of the extreme mountain region. He is in a joint canvass in the coolness of the mountains, and says it is delightful. He says there will be more Republicans in the next Legislature than there are in the present one, but even fewer Populists.

The guessing at the Fusion ticket goes on daily. Your correspondent has taken no sort of interest in this Fusion game of "now you see it and now you don't"—now it's Adams and now it's Cy Thompson. At the last returns Adams headed the ticket, with Cy Thompson for Secretary of State. The Fusionists have done some tall prevaricating about this matter and for no reason in the world save to mystify their own followers. Heaven knows the Democrats care nothing about the who Fusion puppets are—or rather the figureheads, like those you throw at three throws for a nickle, when you go to the State fair. They are only put up to be knocked down.

The editor of the Progressive Farmer, the Alliance organ, makes some plain declarations editorially today in favor of the franchine amendment.

The State flags on the capitol are to remain at half-staff for 30 days, as a mark of regret to the memory of Gov. Carr.

Isaac Meekins, of Elizabeth City, whom the "revenue ring" is trying to keep from getting the Republican Congressional nomination in the 1st district, says the revenue officers and the negroes are the love of his party in North Carolina. He says further that the revenue officers know that when the negro is eliminated, a white Republican party will be formed and then they will be out of business and can no longer dominate.

Republicans in North Carolina have not been given much money this year by the national committee. The latter does not appear to be worried about North Carolina. The Republicans have aided the Populists to some extent. The Populists have not had much, and to use a gambling phrase, "after a big bluff they are going broke."

The Halifax county Republican convention was made up of 250 negroes and one white man. Of course he was a revenue official. The convention made no nominations, because Holton said he was not ready to have them made.

The acts and resolutions of the Legislature at the June session are printed. They make 84 pages.

The cost of yesterday's session was quite small; not quite $100.

The Fusionists are trying even now their desperate game of trying to capture the Legislature. They are only working in close counties.

The Republicans are sending out a circular claiming that the Democrats in certain eastern counties have appointed negro poll-holders. Inquiry about matter shows that in a large number of precincts in black counties of the east the Republican party is composed entirely, or almost entirely, of negroes. Senator Travis, of Halifax, chairman of the executive committee of that county, stated today that there were ten precincts in Halifax in which there is not a single Populist or white Republican. Other members of the Legislature from the east make the same statement about their counties. It is a well known fact to everybody living in the eastern part of the State that this is true of a good many precincts in the black counties and in these counties some few negroes have been appointed poll-holders to represent the Republican party. Who says that the communities in which the negro practically constitutes the Republican party, he is is not a fit representative of that party? The same circular also says that Chairman Simmons is reported in The Winston Sentinel as saying that no negro poll-holders had been appointed. Chairman Simmons, when asked about this matter, stated that he had not seen The Winston Sentinel, and did not know what he was reported to have said, but remembered distinctly that the reporter of that paper inquired of him whether any negro had been appointed registrar in the State, and he answered emphatically: "No negro."

THE NINTH'S ACTION AT TIEN-TSIN.

In the Attack Upon the Chinese They Displayed Unusual Fearlessness—The Americans Who Were Cut off in a Marsh Suffered Terribly—English Troops Escorted Col. Liscum's Body—Japanese the Heroes of the Battle.

Copyright 1900, by Associated Press.

Tien-Tsin, Saturday, July, 14, via Che Fu, July 16 and Shanghai, July 24.—The Ninth Regiment, United States Infantry, entered the fight at Tien-Tsin with 430 men. An incomplete list of casualties shows 18 killed, 75 wounded and 2 missing. The marines had 4 killed and 18 wounded. Major James Regan, Ninth Infantry, was wounded in the leg; Captain Edwin V. Bookmiller, Ninth Infantry, in the leg and groin; First Lieutenant Smedley D. Butler, United States Marine Corps, in the leg: Captain Wm. B. Lemly, United States Marine Corps, in the arm; Second Lieutenant Frank R Lang, Ninth Infantry, in the foot.

First Lieutenant Henry Leonard, of the Marine Corps, carried Lieutenant Butler from the field under a fierce fire. He was shot in the upper left arm while returning, but ran and swam a mile under fire, getting to the rear. His arm was amputated today.

Capt. Chas. R Noyes, who had been slightly wounded in the leg and arm, swam a mile with only his nose above water, with a request for re-enforcements.

First Lieutenant Clayton, of the Ninth Infantry, made a dash for re-enforcements under fire, and received three slight wounds.

Colonel Liscum was shot in the abdomen and died half an hour later. His last words were: "Keep up firing." The Ninth was ordered to support the Japanese, who were receiving an enfilading fire. After crossing a mud wall half a mile from the city wall, the Ninth shifting, advanced against the flanking fire, and reached a marsh beside the river at the southwest corner of tue city. A body of Chinese in a burned village under the wall just across the river, where they were strongly barricaded, poured in a fire and whenever an American raised a hand he was shot. A Nordenfelt gun and two small cannon were also trained upon them. They lay in the mud all day without a surgeon to attend their wounds, and were unable to move or help the wounded, without food, and drinking the canal water. They had exhausted their amunition, except a few rounds which were retained in order to repel a charge if it should be made. None expected to escape. A few reaching the rear, reported that half of the command had been killed or wounded, including heat prostrations in the estimate. After the Americans had retired under cover of the darkness, they struggled back into squads all night, pitifully exhausted and carrying their wounded. The American hospital was crowded and short of surgeons, there having been no expectation of such losses.

Today squads searched the fields, collecting the dead and wounded. Colonel Liscum's body was escorted to a boat this evening by two battallions of English troops, with a general and a colonel at their head. Lieutenant Colonel Coolridge, who is now commanding the regiment, and Major Lee were among the pall-bearers. The chaplain of the Marine Corps read the service at the canal lock. The body will be shipped to San Francisco.

The total losses of the allied forces were about 800 The British lost about 50. The Japanese estimate their killed at 50 and wounded 250. The Russians estimate their casualties at 150. All day long the work of bringing in the dead and wounded was continued.

The Japanese were the heroes of the battle. Their fighting was remarkably brave, and they were praised by all their colleagues. When some of the foreign officers counseled retreat last night the Japanese general said: "When my men move it will be forward."

This morning they charged the breaches in the wall made by the artillery and fought hand-to-hand in the streets Their conduct after the fight was equally good, as they refrained from looting while some of the European soldiers were having an orgie. Dead Chinamen cover the walls and streets of Tien-Tsin. Fifty guns were captured. The place was full of munitions of war. Many fires have been started and most of the city will probably be burned The Chinese are retreating toward Pekin.

If it is matting, carpet or rugs you are looking for don't forget that our second floor is full of these goods.

THACKER & BROCKMANN.

She Never Knew.

Chicago Times-Herald.

A Chinaman on a Clark street car in his national costume with a flowing pigtail caused some amusement the other day in which he was unconsciously assisted by a pretty American girl who was his vis-a-vis. The conductor was taking up the fares and the young woman, who was busy putting on her gloves, took a dime from her mouth and handed it to him without taking her attention from her gloves. At the same moment the Chinaman reached into his ear and attraced a nickel from that repository.

He gave the nickel to the girl in change for her dime, and she absently put it in her mouth for safekeeping. The Chinaman saw the action and clutched the conductor's sleeve.

"Him swaller," he gasped; "maklee him pocket."

The girl understood and disgorged the coin, but she will not know where its previous receptacle had been until she reads this account of the episode.

Coatless Negligee.

Charlotteville Progress.

We approve most heartily of the movement to make the "shirt waist" as fashionable for men as it is for women. Man has had the shirt waist for years, but convention has declared that he must cover it with a coat. Why? Without suspenders, and with a neat belt, he is quite as presentable as when he swelters beneath a coat. Why should he not be as comfortable as he can?

By all means let us have the coatless negligee attire for men in hot weather. Who will set the fashion those who are so bound to custom as to need a model to induce men to secure comfort?

A Good Argument.

Reidsville Review.

The $1,000 bond executed by citizens of Reidsville is one of the best arguments in favor of the amendment yet put forth. It is signed by men whose aggregate wealth is probably a half million dollars, and hundreds of others would have signed it if asked. The one thousand dollars will be promptly paid to the school fund in the event of any native born white man being disfranchised by the adoption of the amendment who otherwise would be entitled to vote.

Wanted to do Bob Glenn's Fighting.

Wilmington Messenger.

Bob Glenn, the great stumper, came near having a mix-up at Sanford. An old radical accused him of falsehoods in 1892. Bob told him he was a liar. A son came on the scene and Bob was about to mount him when friends interferred. A friend from Stokes was on hand, and slipping up, he told Glenn to stand back he would do his fighting for him.

Has Come to Stay.

Norfolk Landmark.

Nothing was ever plainer than that the shirt-waist man has come to stay. The question will soon be whether or not he shall have the additional comfort of decolletage.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1900.

SHIRTS AND SHIRTWAISTS.

We notice that some bold devotees of comfort are insistently asking the devotees of fashion why, if women are allowed to appear in public in shirtwaists, men are not extended the privilege of appearing in shirts? This appeared to be a poser. It was argued that men are sufferers from the heat as well as the gentler ones, that he is as necessary to society as his sisters, that he is as effective in the promotion of science and progress, that his comfort should therefore be considered equally with hers, and finally, therefore, that he should not be forced to swelter in a coat, collar, shirt, suspenders, and under garments, while she was allowed to mock him by continually appearing at pleasure in light, cool shirtwaists, which at best are half negligee—without a broad collar and cuffs, without a barn door shirt front, without a useless waistcoat, and finally without man's inevitable blanket coat.

This argument was rather heavy, but the answers came thick and fast. Some of the less generous ones were that man, being a man, didn't deserve anything else. The next was based upon the assumption that man must ever continue to wear suspenders, and that their inartistic crossing over his back demanded that a coat be used to cover them. This sounded fair. But the reply was that woman hereelf had at one time worn suspenders over her shoulders. It was a brief sprint of fashion to be sure, but one nevertheless. And thus the argument went backward and forth. The burden of the case still is against the men folks, and now rests upon the statement that they cannot artistically connect their upper and lower garments at the waist as women do. The shirtwaist is said by critics to be not only the most artistic and neatest dress arrangement for women, but the most convenient as well. The skirt and the shirtwaist are connected at the waist with a deftness and skill that are marvelous. From the present stage of the argument it appears that when the sterner sex have discovered some plan by which they may imitate those skillful and artistic waist effects, fashion may decree it in good form to appear without coats. And until fashion so decrees men may continue to swelter.

PIGEON-HOLED.

The correspondents of the Raleigh Post and the Charlotte Observer write their papers that they have gathered such information as leads them to believe certainly that Chairman Simmons' letter to the President has been pigeon-holed at the White House by Private Secretary Cortelyou and that the President will never see it, or at least until after the August election, despite the Private Secretary's recent cheerful assurance that it should be brought to Mr. McKinley's attention.

Inquiry by these gentlemen at the Treasury Department and at the Department of Justice, brought out the fact that neither of these departments had officially heard of the letter, though each knew well enough of its existence. Meanwhile the papers of the country are beginning to talk of the matter and this may bring Mr. Cortelyou to the decision to let the President have the letter for something earlier than fall reading. We adhere to our belief that if this statement of fact goes unheeded by the President he is not worthy of that high respect that should naturally attach to one in so high a position, for he will have shown himself a coadjutor in the shameful partisan persecutions of the best people of a sovereign State.

THE WOODPECKER STILL A PECKIN'.

The Anti-Dispensary League continues the process of pecking out its own like brains like the Irishman's woodpecker. The poor boys are getting wilder and wilder in their statements. Today we present another parallel, showing that in one breath they say that the Dispensary has sold less liquor than the barrooms did, and in the next that it has sold more Here they are:

From the Anti Dispensary News of yesterday:

"It is very gratifying to note that the Prohibitionists in all parts of the county as a rule are opposed to the Dispensary. When you come to think of it, it is but natural that they should be against it. They are opposed to the sale of liquor, and the fact that the Dispensary does not sell as much liquor as the bars did, does not make it right for the county to engage in the business."

From a circular letter signed by the Chairman of the League:

"The Dispensary is nothing but ba arroom run by the town, and the only difference between it a d other bars is that it sells more liquor and worse liquor than they."

Whatever the League's intentions in the way of having more liquor sold in Greensboro, with all the enticing allurements set to make drunkards of every mother's son in Greensboro if possible, they are harmless. An institution that can't get out something that will appeal to reasonable people cannot expect to win the support of sensible folks, therefore they are harmless. We love them for their simplicity. Give 'em more rope.

In their fighting at Tien-Tsin the Japs not only won glory, but enhanced it by their conduct after the city fell. The Japs will do for friends.

The contract price of the construction of the hull and machinery is stated as $260,000.

The features of the yesterday's proceeding in the Populist, Democratic and silver Republican State conventions, which met at Fort Scott, Kan., in separate halls to nominate State tickets, or effect a fusion in the interest of a single ticket, was the turning down of the senatorial aspirations of Jerry Simpson by the Populist convention.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Told a Negro's Age by His Teeth.

News and Observer.

In Alleghany county the Republicans claim to be able to tell whether a negro is old enough to vote by examining his teeth. Jones, of Alleghany, the renegade Democrat who voted for Pritchard in 1896, and "Ruff" Henderson, United States Commissioner, decided in Alleghany county that a negro was 23 years old by such examination, though the registrar had ascertained that he was under twenty. It is a good way to tell the age of a horse, but it is the first time we have known it to be used to tell the age of a negro.

M'KINLEY AND THE EMPEROR.

The Correspondence Between the Two, in Which the Emperor Asks the United States to Mediate Toward Restoring Peace—The President's Reply.

Washington, July 24.—The following correspondence between the President of the United States and the Emperor of China was made public by the State Department today:

The Emperor of China to His Excellency the President of the United States—Greeting:

China has long maintained friendly relations with the United States and is deeply conscious that the object of the United States is international commerce. Neither country entertains the least suspicion or distrust toward the other. Recent outbreaks of mutual antipathy between the people and Christian missions caused the foreign powers to view with suspicion the position of the imperial government as favorable to the people and prejudicial to the missions, with the result that the Taku forts were attacked and captured. Consequently there has been clashing of forces with calamitous consequences. The situation has become more and more serious and critical. We have just received a telegraphic memorial from onr envoy Wu Ting Fang, and it is highly gratifying to us learn that the United States Government having in view the friendly relations between the two countries has taken a deep interest in the present situation. Now China, driven by the irresistible course of events, has unfortunately incurred well nigh universal indignation. For settling the present difficulty, China places special reliance in the United States. We address this message to Your Excellency in all sincerity and candidness with the hope that Your Excellency will devise measures and take the initiative in bringing about a concert of the powers for the restoration of order and peace. The favor of a kind reply is earnestly requested, and awaited with the greatest anxiety.

KWANG HSU,

This cablegram was at once communicated to the President at Canton, and the following is his reply:

M'KINLEY'S REPLY.

The President of the United States to the Emperor of China—Greeting:

I have received your Majesty's message of the 19th of July and am glad to know that Your Majesty recognizes the fact that the Government and people of the United States desire of China nothing but what is just and equitable. The purpose for which we landed troops in China was the rescue of our legation from grave danger and the protection of the lives and property of Americans who were sojourning in China in the enjoyment of rights guaranteed them by treaty and international law. The same purposes are publicly declared by all the powers which have landed military forces in Your Majesty's empire.

I am to infer from Your Majesty's letter that the malefactors who have disturbed the peace of China, who have murdered the Minister of Germany and a member of the Japanese legation, and who now hold besieged in Pekin those foreign diplomatists who still survive, have not only received any favor or encouragement from Your Majesty, but are actually in rebellion against the imperial authority. If this be the case:

I most solemnly urge upon Your Majesty's government to give public assurance whether the foreign ministers are alive, and, if so, in what condition.

2. To put the diplomatic representatives of the powere in immediate and free communication with their respective governments and to remove all danger to their lives and liberty.

3. To place the imp rial authorities of China in communication with the relief expedition so that co-operation may be secured between them for the liberatfon of the legations, the protection of foreigners and the restoration of order.

If these objects are accomplished it is the belief of this government that no obstacles will be found to exist on the part of the powers to an amicab'e settlement of all the questions arising out of the recent troubles and the friendly good offices of this government will, with the assent of the other powers, be cheerfully placed at Your Majesty's disposition for that purpose.

ON THE ITALIAN RIVIERA

LOVED BY FAMOUS MEN.

The Winter Residence of the Emperor of Germany—Where Shelley Lived—Revived Castles—The Blue Waters of the Mediterranean.

(Correspondence from Nice, Italy.)

The Riviera di Levante is still comparatively unknown to those who seek the sun in many lands. Cannes, Mentone, San Remo are household words, while Porto Fino, Rapallo, Levanto and Lerici are names to be sought in an atlas.

It is the last of these, a tiny Italian hamlet of many-colored houses, nestling beneath a ruined castle, which gives its name to the little bay, whose waves glitter beneath the ilex woods of the Villa Marigola, the winter residence of the Empress Frederick of Germany. Across the waters, sapphire blue by reflection of the sky above, and on the opposite cliff, stands another old castle, still ready to protect the village of San Terenzo from those pirates who have not troubled its peaceful fishing folk for many a long year, says the Ladies' Pictorial.

Just beyond the village the dark ilex woods of the villa, rising abruptly from the shore, form a striking contrast to the soft green of the olives that cover the neighboring hills. Up above, the turreted roof of the villa is seen through the trees, a house of no great age or pretension, but full of many beautiful things gathered together by the ar ic owners during their long residence in Italy.

The great charm of Marigola, however, lies in the beauty of its surroundings, its solitude, far from the haunts of tourists, and in its many associations. The eye turns from ruined castle to purple sea, dotted here and there with lateen sails, and beyond, again, to where Porto Venere lies on the other side of the Gulf of Spezzia, of which John Addington Symonds says: "It is not without reason that our lady of beauty took this fair gulf to herself; and now that she has been long dispossessed, her memory lingers yet in names, for Porto Venere remembers her, and Lerici is only Eryx."

On these sunny shores, sheltered by a low range of hills from the cold winds which come down from the Apennines, winter stays but a short time. The Indian summer, loath to leave, has hardly gone when the first violets appear in the olive gardens and the peach and almond blossoms proclaim another spring.

At the foot of the ilex woods stands a square, weather-beaten house with a terrace built on rude arcades. This is the Casa Magni; a new road now separates it from the sea, which when Shelley lived here fretted at its base. One cannot pass it without thinking of that wild night when the poet's wife, anxiously pacing the terrace, watched for the Don Juan, which had gone down in the storm. The boat was wrecked some twenty miles away, and Shelley's body, found near Via Reggio, was burnt on the sands where the waves had laid it. A few days before his death, writing from the Casa Magni, he says: "I still inhabit this divine bay, reading Spanish dramas and sailing and listening to the most enchanting music."

Here, too, he saw the veiled vision of himself, which he believed to be a warning of the approaching end; but it is pleasanter, while lingering in the woods, to remember that beneath these trees he sat and wrote the "Triumph of Life."

But once upon a time a greater man than these came from afar and sought shelter at the Benedictine convent, whose ruins still stand on Capo Corvo. Dante, an exile from Florence, was received by Fra Ilario and to the query, "What seek you here?" answered, "Peace."

Though the convent is a ruin, not far off stands a castle which to-day is still as Dante saw it when he stayed there as a guest of Moreollo Melaspina, and wrote part of the "Inferno" within its hospitable walls.

Fos di Novo, has been carefully restored inside and out, by the present marchese with the aid of artists from Florence, so that it invites a visit as a fine specimen of the architecture and decoration of that period.

Dante's room is still shown almost as he might have left it. The drive there is through Sarzana, then by a steep ascent with an ever-widening and changing view, first of the plain where Luni stood, and then the gulf, seen again over the tops of the low hills, ending at last at the gate of a walled mediaeval hamlet. From Fos di Novo a miniature pass leads by way of La Spolverina to the dazzling marble quarries of Carrara. There is many a mule path to old-world villages, some clinging to the hillsides amid the olives, looking over valleys to where the snowy peaks of the Apennines catch the glow of the sun, setting in the sea; others, again, on wave-washed rocks difficult of access by land, and only to be reached with frail fishing boats in calm weather; or to distant thickets where the quail rest on their long flight; nor can there be described the charm of sailing over those blue waters to where Porto Venere, proud of once having inspired Byron, has reared a tablet to his memory.

THE NEW STAY.

Paris corset makers have given us a new device for the destruction of health and for the distortion of a woman's figure. It is disguised under the name of "the new stay." One would naturally suppose that the word "stay" was intended to suggest a support. Nothing can be further from the real effect of the so-called new corset, which is one of the most ingenious devices for producing an abnormal and most hideously ugly waist of the slightest proportions yet invented.

THE HUMAN HOUR GLASS.

The modern woman, when she is laced in her raw-fangled corset, is a caricature upon the form her creator vouchsafed her. Since the days of the early Greeks there has always been a disposition for women to tighten themselves about the waist-line. The Greek matrons were censured for tightening their girdles, but the Greek waist of the average woman measured about twenty-eight inches. This is very near the natural and correct size.

The new corset is constructed with the intention of making a woman's waist smaller than it ever has been before. It stands to reason that if the waist is laced in beyond its natural size, the bust and the stomach must find a place elsewhere, and the result, of course, is to force the bust up out of all lines of grace, and on the other hand, to produce a pressure downward on the stomach and abdomen is almost certain to induce internal troubles.

The modern corset has always had great capacities in this line. The new corset is merely an exaggeration in its defects of the old one, and will hold its victim in a vice-like grasp just about that portion of her body where she should have the greatest freedom. The new corset will find favor, and it will be accountable for more red noses, bad headaches, atacks of congestion and general destruction of the beauty of womanhood than any agent hitherto devised. Laced in her new garment of torture I defy any living woman to take a full, deep breath—and upon full, deep breathing the health and beauty of each woman depends.

A PATRICIAN FLAGMAKER.

Relative of the Vanderbilts Turns Out 4,000 a Year.

"It's a mystery to me," said Mrs. Roach, "how the newspapers find out every little thing about persons. What possible interest can it be to the public whether I made the flags which are used on the New York Central railroad, or whether somebody else made them?"

"It is interesting," was the reply, "to know that a woman does the work, and it really seems a new departure, notwithstanding the numerous fields which women have invaded, and that you have been at it for years."

"That may be quite true," said Mrs. Roach, "but I never have posed as a society woman, wishing to retrieve fallen fortune. In fact, I have no social ambition, and I prefer that no publicity be given to my work."

Being assured, however, that the Press desired the story, Mrs. Roach proved herself to be the delightful little woman her friends find her. She was a near relative of Mrs. Wiliam H. Vanderbilt, through the Kissam branch of the family, and it perhaps is due to the influence of Cornelius Vanderbilt that Mrs. Roach has the position and salary she has enjoyed for several years.

Personally, she is attractive. Her gray hair falls in waves away from a broad forehead, her bright eyes have a mischievous twinkle when she smiles. In spite of her young looks and figure, Mrs. Roach is a grandmother and carries that dignity gracefully.

For several years the flags which are used on all railroads governed by the New York Central management, have been made by Mrs. Roach. It is true that she has some assistants, who are occupied eleven months of the year, but she personally superintends and inspects every piece of bunting which, as a flag, is waved on the entire Vanderbilt system.

The flags are made by hand. The cost of their material alone is $1,600 a year. As these flags seldom last for more than two extended trips, hundreds of them are kept on hand, for they fade easily and frequently are lashed into ribbons by the wind.

The flags are used for signals and to classify trains, viz.: Freight, special, extra, irregular, regular and others. They also are used on the rear of cars, at crossing gates, in the yard and at stations and towers.

The size of the flags is uniform, the standard being 16x18 inches, but they vary in shape, The danger, or red, flags are the only exception, and these are twice the regular size—32x36 inches.

The special significance of flag signals is in their color. A white flag at a crossing denotes safety, and on the rear end of a car denotes special. Green is caution, and a blue flag is used in the yard and along the line as a signal of caution to workmen.

There are 2,500 green and 1,500 red flags used every year, and the woman who attends to the making of them is said to receive $5,000 a year.

DAIRYING IN CALIFORNIA.

Where Cows Are Pastured the Entire Year.

CHEAP MILK PRODUCING

(San Francisco Correspondence.)

It may not be generally known in the East that California sends butter and cheese to the Orient although she does not supply her home market. Large quantities of cheese are sent from New York and Wisconsin to supplement the output of the home factories. Frequently the goods shipped in are not the best. They usually sell well, however, as they meet little competition with superior grades. This peculiar condition will not last when the Coast production has further increased.

The various grain feeds commonly used by dairymen in the East are seldom used in California. The feeding stuffs principally depended upon are natural pasturage, alfalfa, roots, and hay. The climate is so mild that the pasture season is unusually long; in fact, in some district it has no end. In Humboldt county grain is not fed; cows are pastured the entire year. The pasture is principally red clover and Italian rye grass, and it is supplemented in fall and winter with green peas, carrots, beets, corn fodder, and hay. That the cattle do well with this care is shown by the fact that some herds of grade stock average over 300 pounds of butter per year, and the cows, as a rule, are in good condition.

In the alfalfa districts one hears almost incredible reports concerning the productiveness of the soil. Enormous crops are common, and five or six cuttings a year are not unusual. Irrigation is practiced to a considerable extent. Here, too, grain is seldom used. When cows are grazing they are usually given a small amount of hay at night, and a little bran is occasionally fed. One dairyman, who paid $175 an acre for his 40-acre ranch reports that he receives about $100 per month from the creamery for the milk of his thirty cows. He uses no grain, pastures eight months, and feeds hay four months each year. His herd consists of ordinary grades and fairly represents many others which have been built up within a short time from stock which is better for beef production than for the dairy.

It is stated on good authority that a dairyman in Yolo county fed ninety milch cows in a corral from March 10 to July 18, 1897, on alfalfa cut from thirty-two acres. No other feed was used. The cows gave satisfactory results in milk yield and were in better condition at the close of the period than at the beginning. The custom of keeping cattle out of doors is made possible by the prevailing mild climate. On many ranches the animals never go under a roof to be milked or for any other purpose.

There are about 300 creameries in California, and they are well equipped and capable of doing good work. It appears that they are, as a rule, profitable investments. The charge for making butter is commonly as high as 3½ cents per pound, and until quite recently creameries charged 4½ cents. One establishment now receiving daily 10,000 pounds of milk from 70 patrons and averaging about seven tons of butter per month, has been in operation four years, and during that time almost $5,000 from the regular earnings have been invested in permanent improvements, besides paying good dividends. Inasmuch as it took some time to grow from a small beginning, this is a good record.

California dairymen and commission men are willing to admit that their State does not produce much cheese suitable for export. As a rule it is soft, open, and moist, and must be used soon after it is made. The trouble, in all probability, is due to improper methods of manufacture, and the surest method of remedying the matter is to teach the science of cheese making and the systems successfully followed elsewhere. If such instructions were offered there is no doubt but that those interested would avail themselves of it.

One cheese factory—a private concern on a ranch of 4,000 acres—has the milk from 130 cows, mostly grade Durhams, is manufactured into "Flats" and "Young Americas." The factory is a neat little one-story, square, brick structure, containing a curing room on the main floor and another below the level of the ground for use in hot weather. It is well equipped for making a fine article of cheese.

As in many other parts of the country, the business of supplying milk in California cities is in an unsettled state. There is a lack of cooperation between milk producers, health officers, and milk consumers, which is detrimental alike to the interests of those who have good milk for sale and those who wish to purchase it. Methods adopted by public officials for improving the milk supply sometimes result in more harm than good.

The mild climate, splendid natural grazing, and the tremendous crops of alfalfa which can be raised at small cost almost make it seem that California has been favored above all other states. Many of the great wheat ranches are gradually adopting dairying as a secondary interest, and some of them have gone into it farther than they had originally planned.

Capt. Bosco's Swimming Cats.

"I read a description the other day of the retrieving cat owned by a sportsman on Hetaire Ridge," said a planter from the south coast, "and, while the case was certainly remarkable, it is completely eclipsed, in my opinion, by a family of swimming cats owned by Capt. Bosco, of Tarpon island. Capt. Bosco is well-known in New Orleans, where he occasionally comes to do some trading, and is immensely popular with the crowd that goes down to the Tarpon Club for periodical outings. He is the kingpin fisherman of Bay Adams, and as quaint and original a character as you could find on the whole coast.

"His swimming cats, about which I started to tell you, belong to a feline tribe that has lived at the captain's place from time out of mind. There are, perhaps, at present a dozen all told, and they have apparently lost every vestage of the natural antipathy of their species for water. They will wade, unhesitatngly, through the shallows on the beach, hunting for small fish, and three or four will actually swim out to nearby luggers to get oysters. Like all cats, they are very fond of that kind of food, and when the captain's lugger comes in from a visit to the beds several of them are certain to jump off the landing and swim to where it lies at anchor. It is very strange to see them come scrambling on board, mewing and shaking themselves and seemingly as indifferent to the wetting as setter puppies.

"How they developed such an extraordinary trait. I don't pretend to say, but it has probably been a matter of gradual evolution. Capt. Bosco don't remember when his cats began to go into the water, but it was many years ago, and with each generation the natural aversion must have become fainter and fainter. It wouldn't surprise me if they developed web feet."—N. O. Times.
